ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The “British Columbia Thesaurus: A Subject Indexing Tool for B.C. Archives” was first produced in 1990 by the BC Archives Council, predecessor to the Archives Association of British Columbia. The development of the thesaurus was a collaborative project led by Janet Turner and Donna Kynaston who responded to the demand by archives throughout the province for a subject indexing tool. During the project Turner and Kynaston worked with archivists throughout the province to create and test a meaningful indexing resource.

In 1993 Turner produced the follow-up document “Municipal & Local Terms: A Supplement to the British Columbia Thesaurus” which provided greater detail for indexing terms related to local and municipal archives. While this secondary thesaurus improved upon and expanded subject indexing terms, the two documents remained as separate texts that had to be referenced simultaneously.

Since the initial development and use of the B.C. Thesaurus, the rise of databases and electronic finding aids used by the archival community in the 21st century continues to reinforce the value of subject indexing when creating descriptive records. The use of a controlled vocabulary is important for researchers and archivists alike when working to identify and efficiently locate records within their holdings.

In response to its continued use by the BC archival community, the two thesaurus documents were reviewed, updated and merged into a master document in 2021. One of the objectives of this project was to also include Indigenous subject indexing terms in response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada: Calls to Action report. Upon review of existing resources in this area, it soon became clear that Indigenous subject and name indexing in British Columbia is an evolving and developing tool as Indigenous communities reclaim their traditional names, spellings, and locations throughout the province. Instead of integrating Indigenous subject indexing terms within the B.C. Thesaurus, these resources will remain as independent, organic documents that stand alongside this document and should be used in partnership. We hope that this honors and respects the work of those individuals who have developed and continue to refine these useful Indigenous subject and name indexing resources.

The long-term objective of the B.C. Thesaurus is to offer a useful indexing resource that is applicable in a variety of repositories throughout the province. It is not practical for the thesaurus to contain every term possible, but we hope that it will continue to be reviewed regularly and updated as needed with feedback from archives throughout British Columbia.

Comments, suggestions, or inquiries about the B.C. Thesaurus can be addressed to:

INTRODUCTION

A thesaurus provides a means of displaying conceptual, or a priori, relationships between terms in a controlled vocabulary. This thesaurus is displayed in several formats, including a hierarchical format and an alphabetical format. Preferred and non-preferred terms are interfiled in the alphabetical listing. These two displays are meant to support the user in different ways:

- the alphabetical format allows the user the ability to look up a known term to determine if it is the preferred term or to find the appropriate preferred term for non-preferred terms.
- the hierarchical format supports subject browsing by the user to find the appropriate term for the materials to be assigned subject terms.

A typical subject entry in the thesaurus will have the following format and include Descriptors and Indicators:

descriptor	THEATRE BUILDINGS
scope note	SN refers only to physical aspects; should be distinguished from CINEMAS
broader term	BT COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS
descriptor	FACTORIES
broader term	BT INDUSTRIAL BUILDINGS
narrower term	NT BREWERIES CANNERIES
related term	RT MANUFACTURING
descriptor	BOMBSHELTERS
used for	UF air raid shelters
used term	Use BOMBSHELTERS

DEFINITIONS

DESCRIPTOR: Descriptors are used to describe (to index) and retrieve information. They are controlled or limited so that the same subject matter may be treated in the same way by different indexers, thereby providing consistent, predictable subject access to researchers and indexers.

INDICATORS: Part of the control established over descriptors is provided by the hierarchical structure in which they are embedded, and by the relationships between hierarchies. Related descriptors have INDICATORS to direct the user to the most appropriate term. The indicator and the alternate term appear under the descriptor.

BRITISH COLUMBIA THESAURUS

For any entry, indicators lead only one step up or down the vertical structure, but may provide more than one associative, or horizontal link. With the exception of the scope note, indicators are always reciprocal.

The indicators are as follows:

SN = Scope Note; lays out the exact definition of the term as applied in the thesaurus, where this is not made clear by the hierarchically associated terms.

TT = Top Term; indicated so the user will know which terms represent a whole category in the thesaurus.

NT = Narrower Term; points to the existence of narrower terms in the thesaurus that may provide a more specific description of the subject:

i.e. FUR TRADE
NT SEALING
TRAPPING

BT = Broader Term; points to broader, more general terms in the thesaurus that may provide a more encompassing description of the subject:

i.e. TRAWLING
BT COMMERCIAL FISHING

RT = Related Term; points to the existence of terms that are related by other than hierarchical means, normally by function, or as opposites:

i.e. MINING
RT ORES
MINERALS

Use = used with non-terms to indicate which term is the preferred thesaurus term. It is an access point to the controlled vocabulary of the thesaurus.

i.e. air raid shelters
Use BOMBSHELTERS

UF = Used For; the reciprocal indicator to "Use". It indicates what uncontrolled term(s) the descriptor is meant to cover.

i.e. BOMBSHELTERS
UF air-raid shelters
fallout shelters

HOW TO USE THE THESAURUS

The descriptors can be used in combinations to get an accurate description of the subject.

Choose from 1 to 4 descriptors which best differentiate your subject matter from a general domain of knowledge.

- For example, if you are indexing the records of a Children's Aid Society, you might select the terms:
 - CHILDREN
 - CHARITABLE SOCIETIES
 - VANCOUVER ISLAND (to increase specificity)

- For example, the descriptor "BOATS" will retrieve all materials so indexed. But in combination with the identifier "CAMPBELL RIVER", the search will be narrowed to materials on boats in the Campbell River area. Or, for an even narrower focus on the domain "boats", a specific vessel name may be used.

Subject Indexing Tips to Remember:

- all items should be given at least one descriptor, and identifiers if appropriate
- never use only identifiers to index an item
- avoid using the broadest or most general descriptors
- if at all possible, terms should be drawn from your finding aid

As has been said, descriptors describe (index) and make retrievable information at hand. They are controlled or limited so that their use will provide consistent subject access to materials about British Columbia.

However, descriptors do not describe specific objects identified by proper names: names of persons, places, organizations, archival genres, or date ranges. These things are treated as IDENTIFIERS, and are not limited or controlled by this thesaurus.

Individual archives may wish to compile identifier lists specific to their needs.

BASIS OF ANALYSIS

In addition to the information provided by the indicators above, this thesaurus points out certain deviations from conventional thesaurus entries, where these occur. The most acceptable basis of analysis for construction of thesaurus hierarchies is of the genus/species variety.

- For example, under BUILDINGS there are various kinds of buildings:
 - PUBLIC BUILDINGS
 - HERITAGE BUILDINGS

Further precision is gained by carrying this process further down the tree.

Where we have deviated from this framework, the nature of the deviation is noted in brackets after the descriptor.

- For example: LEGAL SYSTEM (partitive analysis) - the narrower terms which follow are not kinds of legal systems but rather parts of a legal system:
 - COURTS
 - LAW
 - LAW ENFORCEMENT

Further, it can happen that even in a conventional genus/species analysis, species can be identified using different criteria.

- For example, we may describe kinds of COURTS:
 - by their function: TRIAL COURTS
 - by their jurisdiction: FEDERAL COURTS
 - by their specialty: JUVENILE COURTS

Such occurrences are also noted with bracketed explanations, above the relevant narrower terms.

CONVENTIONS:

Lexicography reflects Canadian usage. Therefore "Theatres", not "Theaters", "Labour" not "Labor", etc.

Descriptors are arranged in natural word order.

- For example: INDUSTRIAL BUILDINGS, not BUILDINGS, INDUSTRIAL.

Capital letters are used to denote actual descriptors, while lower case letters are reserved for non-terms, scope notes, and basis-of-analysis descriptions.

BRITISH COLUMBIA THESAURUS

Descriptors are entered in the plural form unless they are collective terms or actions:

- For example: FEDERAL GOVERNMENT - to describe both the collective body, and the action of governing, but SCHOOL DISTRICTS - to describe a collection of discrete areas; also, no action is carried out by a district.

WAR, to describe the general phenomenon, but WARS, to describe the class of named wars.

Filing is done on a word-by-word, letter-by-letter basis.

HOMOGRAPHS:

Where the meanings of homographs must be distinguished, bracketed explanations following the term form part of the term.

- For example: ENGINEERS (PROFESSIONAL)
ENGINEERS (STATIONARY, RAILROAD)

TOP TERM LIST (TT)

The B.C. Thesaurus groups concepts into categories that then allows for a limited number of “Top Terms” (TT). You can use this list of 73 Top Terms as a general subject description.

These terms are then further broken down in the following pages with a hierarchy of Broader Term(s) or Narrower Term(s).
